Big Part Of 2 Nazi Cities Are Devastated By R.A.F.

By DOUGLAS AMARON
LONDON, July 18.—(CP)—An indication of the extent of damage resulting from the Royal Air Force offensive against western Germany was given today in an air ministry news service statement that at least one-third of the German cities of Aachen and Munster has been "destroyed or seriously damaged" by the bombing.

"Casualties must have been heavy and the damage will need months of intensive labor to replace," the service said.

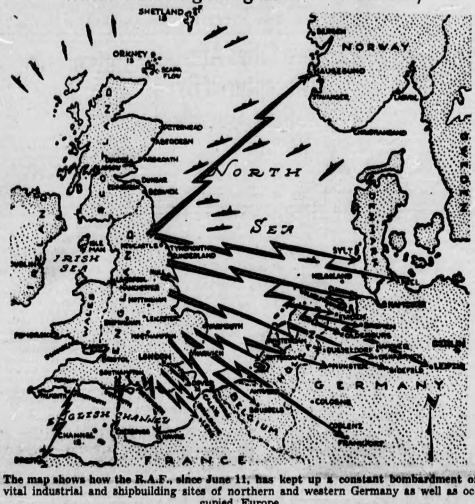

After detailing the damage in those cities, the news service added that more than 120 raids have been made on Germany and German-occupied territory in the past few weeks.

"The news service said 'terrible damage was done in Aachen July 17 when loads of high explosive and 7,000 incendiaries were dropped. Pilots said the raid was one of the most successful R.A.F. ever had undertaken and that almost every bomb reached its intended target."

"The damage was mostly in the center, but no part of the town escaped," the news service added. "Fire caused widespread havoc and many areas suffered heavily from the blast. Craters in roadways disrupted public services, telephone, gas, electricity and tele-

Germans Claim Wedge Widened Past Smolensk

BERLIN, July 18.—(AP)—The German high command claimed today that the German wedge past Smolensk into central Russia has been widened, with Nazi troops astride the road to Moscow and striking eastward.

The war bulletin also claimed gains on the northern and southern flanks.

"It declared German and Ukrainian forces moving into the Ukraine from Bessarabia, had crossed the Dniester river 'in several places' and the Red army had been pushed back in the north to the northern shore of Lake Ladoga.

The German and Finnish drive from the north was said to have smashed through stubborn Soviet resistance.

A continuing advance on the important central front was said in the communication which said Nazi forces were pushing a widening wedge between Smolensk, 250 miles from Moscow.

Several newspapers and military commissions, elaborating on the official account, claimed that a wedge probably had been driven

PORT ALBERT, S.C., July 18.—(CP)—O. S. Pearson, provincial minister of labor, predicted today that the election will be held in a few days.

"I have no certain information," he said, "but I believe that the election will be held in a few days."

Disruption of the legislature would precede the holding of a provincial general election.

Skipper Avoids Death By Hunting U-Boat In Gale

Here is the story of Robert J. Casey's notable series on his experiences through 22 months of the current World War II, perhaps the longest period of uninterrupted service known to any contemporary North American correspondent. He had linked arms with death through the low countries, through France, England, the Middle East—and in the stupor night of the North Atlantic—EDITOR.

THE ship hit something hard, rolled half way to nowhere, took a wet acre of the North Atlantic over her quarter and hung there shivering, with the bottom apparently no great way off. The furniture on the deck above, a bookcase, a few chairs, a couple of tables and a heavy dining, piled up with a splintering crash.

And in the dining room, as the floor upended, all the dishes and most of the passengers shot toward the starboard wall. A port cranked and gallons of icy water swept over a home-sound bishop who had no adequate words for the occasion.

We were somewhere in the North Atlantic that night, headed for the hot lands of West Africa. There were U-boats about and the ship was dodging them.

The "fiddle," the little fives supposed to keep the crockery from sliding onto the floor, weren't high enough to lessen the havoc at the chief engineer's table.

Chief Rescues His Chops

The chief engineer, who had thoughtfully hooked his chair to the floor, braced himself against the shock with a talent that comes of long experience and leaned forward to meet the avalanche. A dozen or more plates broke, through his quack and clattered into his lap. Unmoved, he started carefully to sort out the debris in search of his own pork chop.

Numerous green-faced passengers, clinging desperately to the edge of the shaking table, looked at him in horrified admiration.

We became aware presently that the engines had quit.

Garrison Of Nazis Destroyed

MOSCOW, July 19.—(AP)—Russian detachments waging guerrilla warfare behind the German lines reported today the capture of two cities identified only as "SH" and "Z."

Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, said in dispatch from the front that the original band numbered only 10 men but the others were quickly recruited and these broke up an armored German column, capturing three whippet tanks and a number of armored cars as well as munitions.

The paper described the bands as "partisans" and said that the German "partisans" then marched into the city where the population welcomed them with food and clothing.

Red Star said that in the Latvia area there were 1,000 of these "partisans" engaged in attacking isolated German units and disrupting communications, and that Russian cavalry

YOUR HOME before Building Costs 66 up

The New Town Planning

By CECIL S. BURGESS, F.R.A.I.C.
Hon. Sec. Edmonton Town Planning Commission

11-Low Cost Housing

In my first article in this series I pointed out that town planning is not now considered as part of the art and science of the culture of cities, that it is not a social question and that its purpose is the well-being of all citizens in so far as that it is affected by their physical surroundings; and it is profoundly affected by these. This is nowhere more evident than in the nature of the housing conditions of that large class of persons who live on a family income of less than a hundred dollars a month, raising a family. These form the essential working basis of society.

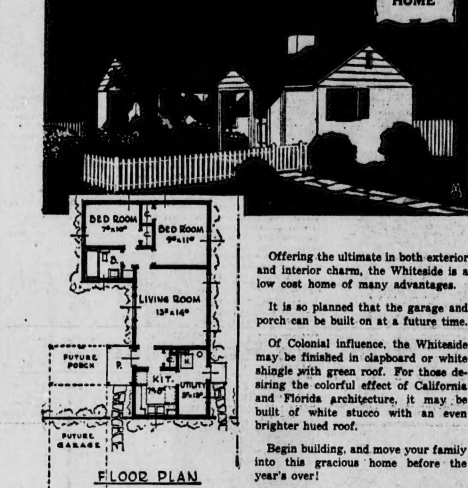

It must therefore be asked, is this class housed in such a way as to cultivate progressively their bodily and mental health and develop them? To answer this question in fullness and truth the method of procedure described in my fifth article must be followed—that of systematic survey, diagnosis, plan and maintenance. A thorough survey would tell how many have adequate housing. We must have this definite knowledge before we can plan to adjust matters.

NANT PUZZLED

The present federal census has puzzled many with the apparently strange questions asked. A number of these questions seek for just such knowledge as is necessary in this matter. The federal government is alive to the necessity of the case, but until each city is at least equally alive there can be no clear survey of the situation. The fact is that the inadequate housing of the poorer classes of our large cities is the scandal of our democratic civilization. The dictators have, in this matter, been wiser in their generation than the children of light. For they self interest they have housed their poorer workers better. Here is indicated a problem for social reconstruction.

It is of special importance to know how all children are housed since the children comprise one-third of the population and are the citizens of the future. A recent survey implies that all information be clearly tabulated and charted and that the tables and charts be kept up from year to year and be in the eye of the public. They point out the objective to be attained.

As regards the diagnosis of the case, this requires that certain standards be recognized as to what shall be considered adequate housing for healthy civilized human beings. This involves the account of the whole required expenditures on family living, for the family must not have its food and other needs cut down for the sake of shelter. Although it may not be generally accepted, I am going to assume that it is not right that children be brought up in apartments. It is quite true that good children are frequently brought up, but brought through such children may be a sufferer, not only in general physical stamina, but also in the sense of a natural outlook upon life as compared with cottaged children. Parents too, who live as tenants in apartments do not have the attitude toward good citizenship of those who own their own dwellings however humble. The essential soil for Offering the ultimate in both exterior and interior charm, the Whiteside is a low cost home of many advantages. It is so planned that the garage and porch can be built on at a future time.

Of Colonial influence, the Whiteside may be finished in clapboard or white shingle with green roof. For those desiring the colorful effect of California and Florida architecture, it may be built of white stucco with an even brighter hued roof.

Board Has Power To Stop Storage Of Farm Produce

OTTAWA, July 10.—(CP)—The order-in-council empowering the special products board to prohibit storage in Canada of agricultural products over which it has jurisdiction was published Friday night in the Canada Gazette.

Last June 21 the board signed orders designed to control the removal of eggs from storage with a view to meeting Canada's commitments to Great Britain. The order published last night, passed June 7, gives the board power to forbid placing agricultural products in storage as well.

Fires In Holland Due To Sabotage, Do Great Damage

NEW YORK, July 10.—(CP)—The Netherlands information bureau in a dispatch from London declared Friday reports have reached the British capital that numerous fires, many of them attributed to sabotage, have caused damage in Holland recently.

The London story declared the fact some of the blasts were known to have started accidentally, but it is believed they were the work of anti-Nazi bent on destroying supplies taken over or about to be taken over, by the Germans.

1941 REVENUE LEVEL

Last night a finance department spokesman said Mr. Haley was not referring only to possible reduced consumption owing to the three-cent tax, but with consequent reduction in provincial gasoline tax collections.

"Even then it was clearly recognized that the progress of the war probably would make necessary some further steps to restrict use of gasoline, or perhaps even rationing," the spokesman said.

"Mr. Haley was expressing federal willingness to maintain provincial gasoline tax revenues at the 1940 level, rather than what made collections drop."

But, the spokesman emphasized, the offer was contingent on willingness of the provinces to withdraw from the corporation and personal income tax field in return for compensation from the federal treasury equivalent to provincial income tax collections in the last year or the service charges on principal debt.

"PART OF DEAL" "It was all part of the Dominion-provincial deal," he said.

So far no definite arrangement had been made with the provinces in regard to the budget taxation proposals, but the spokesman said some time ago that it had been indicated by eight provinces that they intended to take advantage of the offer, but no word had been received from Ontario.

Arrangements of a final nature would not be made until after a complete study of the situation in regard to the plan's application in each province had been completed.

Mr. Haley in the budget speech estimated the three-cent federal gasoline tax would bring in $22,000,000 during the present fiscal year ending next March 31. In addition to reducing provincial revenue, a reduction in private gasoline consumption also would cause a big reduction in federal collections from this tax.

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, July 10.—(AP)—The French tanker Sheridan and French freighter Neigoutier arrived at Casablanca from the United States Friday, marking resumption of trade relations between the United States and French North Africa after suspension with a recent agreement.

Quebec's Part In War Effort Is Worthy One

OTTAWA, July 10.—(CP)—Jean Charles Harvey, French Canadian writer from Montreal, Friday told an Ottawa service club that the average French Canadian now is more enthusiastic for a British victory than ever before.

Mr. Harvey said the province of Quebec had been "shown in an entirely false light."

"The honor of French Canada is at stake and this wrong must be righted, so that Canadian unity shall not suffer through entirely created by the indifference and thoughtlessness of a few," he declared.

BEHIND WAR EFFORT

Nine out of 10 French language daily newspapers in Quebec prove wholeheartedly behind the war effort.

"The first regiment to reach full strength in Canada when war broke out was French-Canadian," he said. More than 100,000 French Canadians were in the forces. There had not been a single strike called in Quebec war industries since the outbreak of hostilities, and the enthusiasm of the war French-Canadians were generally subscribing to "loans and projects."

Mr. Harvey said that much importance had been attached to the fact that a small group of ultra-nationalists.

WELL INFORMED

We compared the attitude of French-Canadians in 1914 and in 1941, concluding, "they are today informed on world events and they take just as much interest in them as any of their countrymen; their knowledge and viewpoint is the same as that of any other intelligent human being."

Mr. Harvey recalled there were several causes for French-Canadians to complain against some Anglo-Basque elements, but called them "side-issues."

There is too much of for us to waste our time on idle recriminations," he said. "In spite of everything we admire the British world because it is defending us. It is defending Canada and of all known Empires it is the one which has shown the most tolerance toward different races, religions and tongues."

Tobacco and minerals are big items in Rhodesia, in Central Africa, and the output of this British territory is booming with the war effort.

Canadian Patrol Boat Drops Shell Near U.S. Yacht

KECHIKAN, Alaska, July 10.—(AP)—Dan R. Foster, of the Fisher Flouring Mills, Seattle and his yacht party reported Friday that a shell from a Canadian patrol boat, fell too close for comfort Thursday as they cruised toward Fisher Report.

In the party were Fisher's son, Bennett, and Clyde Stromberg, and E. Jamison, Seattle newspaperman.

"They said that Stromberg was seated in a forward cockpit of the fisher yacht Begoda watching driftwood when the shell landed 'right in front of him'."

The party had called to note the patrol boat and did not know they were supposed to. They said they were "booming into Prince Rupert" at 22 knots and believed the patrol boat misjudged their speed so the warning shell landed closer than expected.

MONEY CONSCRIPTION URGED

Credit Control Is War Necessity

Canadians Must Make Greater Contribution If Freedom To Be Won

Conscription of the money system is "essentially necessary and absolutely imperative both for the successful prosecution of this titanic struggle and for the comprehensive preparation of the post-war reconstruction period," Premier William Aberhart declared Saturday.

The Premier declared that conscription of money "is even more urgent than conscription of man power" and should proceed "it."

He added that such money conscription "has been my conviction since the war began."

Then, he declared that "I am persuaded that if our young men are convinced that we have a freedom of individual effort which is worth fighting for and that they will come back to conditions more conducive to the common welfare, there will be sufficient enlistment to eliminate the need for conscription of man power."

The Premier's full statement in urging conscription of money power is as follows:

Today Canadians everywhere are aware that we must make a greater and more effective contribution to the glorious cause of freedom in the true sense of the word for an early victory and in abiding peace.

As the war proceeds we see the hideous faces of panemism fighting desperately for domination over the world.

Ninth Rose Show Army Boosted

By 22 Recruits In City Drive

Twenty-two recruits were medically boarded at the Prince of Wales army on Friday, according to Lt. Col. Allan, R. Elliot, officer commanding No. 11A District Depot.

Although the special recruiting drive for 25,000 men ended last Saturday recruiting is still continuing throughout the whole Dominion. At the special drive closed, the 14th depot was opened and 250 men are being sought in Alberta. More than 500 have been obtained. There are still vacancies.

Practically all branches of the service are seeking men and all tradesmen are specially desired. Any physically fit man lacking technical training need not hold back as army trade schools will provide the training.

1,000 A MONTH

It is expected that the Canadian Army will require about 1,000 men a month from June 15 on and the recruiting organizations, now functioning at 1,000 a month, are expected to increase this figure.

The recruiting officers at the Prince of Wales Army will continue to receive recruits while the recruiting drive is still on. Jagger also will remain open.

The military campment at the Edmonton Grounds has been a centre of activity all week, with army, navy and air force represented on the recruiting drive. Many inquiries were handled and much information was given to prospective members of the three services.

$1,500 Donated To War Charity

At Special Show

Canadian War Charities will benefit by approximately $1,500 as a result of the grand charity concert given Thursday evening by artists of the grandstand show, "Music on Wings" and the All-Canadian Midway, "Frolic-Land." The show was sponsored by the Vancouver League of America.

In making the announcement, Frank R. Conklin, president of the Midway, and also president of the Vancouver League of America, stated that it is anticipated that $1,500 will be donated to the Canadian War Charities as a result of the gala performance here and another concert planned for the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto.

The Inquiring Reporter

What do you think of the new gas regulations which do not permit sales after 5 p.m. on Saturdays?

THE ANSWER

ALICE MANNING, bank clerk: I think the regulations are quite reasonable. However, I would rather see the gasoline rationing than the new gas regulations.

FRED BOWEN, salesman

I believe the regulations are reasonable. However, I would rather see the gasoline rationing than the new gas regulations.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl of 19 and have a good job. I am in love with my sister's husband. She refuses to give him a divorce and he has no grounds on which he can obtain one. We are planning to leave our home to go where nobody knows us and start life all over again for ourselves. I am sure my sister only wants him for a moral ticket, she could not love him. I am sure she means things about him in public she does not say in private. I am continually nagged at home until I think I will go crazy. Do you think we would be happy if we would go away? Or should I give him up entirely and go to some other town and try to forget about him? We are planning to be grateful if you would give us your frank opinion of this situation.

A VERY MIXED-UP GIRL.

ANSWER—There is no reason for you to be mixed up about what to do in this situation. The answer is as plain as the nose on your face. Every particle of common sense as well as common sense that you possess tells you to break off your relationship with your brother-in-law once and have no part in wrecking your sister's marriage.

You ask if you will be happy if you elope with your brother-in-law and go where nobody knows you. It doesn't take a prophet to answer that question. If "no" you will not be happy, because nobody is happy who is betraying those who love them and who is doing a mean and cruel thing. No criminal is happy, because we have to be right with ourselves before we can be right with the world.

Don't think you can keep your relationship to him a secret. Show it all always leaks out, and when your position makes men and free to insult you and when your knowledge of what you have done continues to rankle in your mind, and when, especially, you will also tire of your sister who will also tire of you and leave you, then you will know that it takes a lot more than love to make a woman happy.

It takes a clear conscience and self-respect and the ability to look the world in the face. And don't think you can go where nobody will know you and your sister will not follow you. There is no place where you will not be running across somebody who knows you and who will relate the story of the girl who stole her sister's husband.

Bulletin Patterns

Dress, Turban, Bag Ensemble

BAROK

Assemble an ensemble—and be really smart this season! Pattern 4904 by Anne Adams includes a frock, a turban and a bag, making a complete outfit. The dress is in a smart, simple style, with novelty, scalloped revers, and a blouse bodice lined and a gracefully cut skirt. The turban is in one piece, darts in front, with a big, crisp bow finished in front. And the bag, which slips smartly over your arm, is in just two pattern pieces. The wide scalloped hemline band and the optional sash-bands of the dress are striking in contrast, matched by the revers, by the front-binding belt, and by the turban and bag. Waist bands turn when you wear this smart costume!

Pattern 4904 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 18, entire ensemble, takes 2½ yards 36 inch fabric and 2¼ yards contrast.

Still The Glad Some Seasons Come!

By Nellie McClung

Copyright Reserved

HIGH summer with its hot, cloudless days is upon us, and we are wearing the garden, with due respect to Spanish regulations. There are some hours in which no tap may run. But the house darkness is unrestricted, and so the short night over the pleasant sound of running water as the tiny streams go down the gladiolus rows, and the gentle sound of the rose bushes. Tap streams must not be allowed to dig holes in the garden, and various means are taken to prevent this. In one neat garden I saw pink Nellie McClung shells used for this purpose. They have pale, whose worn bottoms are covered with gravel, and the streams come out through the holes that time has made. The birds are happy over all this irrigation, and am sure the swallows are tempted to build new houses, not to waste all this good mud.

These are times of strange happenings when many of the old catch words are falling. But some things remain, and there are still happy surprises. From the radio came news that last Sunday churches in Moscow were crowded, for, as Mr. Churchill said in his great speech on the day war was declared, "in the time when loved ones are in danger, everyone prays." There is still a refuge for the soul to which people turn in their sore need, and the system of government can entirely still man's cry to God.

COURAGE AND STRENGTH. There is a young woman in London who drives a car through the devastated streets. It is not an ambulance to pick up the wounded, but a death car to pick up the dead. In the great cities where so much of the heart of the city was blasted, and in a letter to a friend, she told how she hung on to a lamp post with the ground heaving under her, and how up through the interstices of her soul came the words, "Yes though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me," and in these words she found courage and strength.

China wins the admiration of the world with its staunch resistance to a ruthless foe superior in arms and equipment. In all these long years of destruction, the Chinese spirit has not wavered, and we know that much of this bravery is due to General Chiang Kai-Shek and his wife. In the little book called "My Religion" which she wrote for her own people, she tells that, early in life she accepted God's will as her own. She gave herself to him, and he used to pray, she writes, "that God would do this or that for me. Now I pray that God will make his people more me. Despair and depression are things of the past. I am not afraid, I am not afraid, I am not afraid. I know that nothing can happen to the General or to me until our work is done. After that, what does it matter? I am strong words from the field of battle which should strengthen the weak arm and confirm the feeble knees."

NO CHOSEN PEOPLE. The faith of the Christian shines more brightly when all around is dark, and the great need of this present troubled time, when men's hearts are failing them for fear, is for that unwavering Christian faith in the hearts of men and more people who are not afraid to proclaim it. Christianity is the only faith broad enough to bring peace to all nations. It has no chosen people, no superior races, no caste, no special liberty to the captive, and bring light to those who are in darkness.

Now I know that someone will write me a letter about this, to tell me about some light-faded old farmer who starved his horses, beat his children, cheated the hired man, and still passed the plate in the Methodist church. All of which may be true, and what does it prove? Though a good apple tree may have some rotten, shrivelled apples, it may still be a good tree. One of our greatest failings is to look at other people's shortcomings and thing which Great Britain owns, but this is not the case at all. Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and Newfoundland are all independent countries, as were Belgium and Holland. England has no proprietary rights whatever over them. They make their own laws, govern themselves and pay their own bills. No one of them pays a cent to England or is subject to any law of England. The British Empire is a voluntary association of independent countries for common purposes, including defence, and any of them may withdraw whenever they please. It is just the opposite of "imperialism."

Price control officials in Germany now exercise their authority in practically everything people eat and wear.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER EDWARDS

Those children who, because of this desirable tanning we all want to enjoy, activates the oil of the skin and sets vitamin D in circulation through the system. This vitamin D, in turn, helps the bones and teeth and nervous system to extract their full allotment of mineral elements from the diet. Rickets, inspired by lack of vitamin D, clears up rather easily provided the diet is rich in minerals and other nutritional elements and the child's bare skin gets sufficient sunning.

Beginning with the baby, the sunbaths should be given regularly and carefully. And that means that one minute's sun in long enough for the small child unused to sun.

Stake the exposure two minutes the second day, three the third, until the time limit has reached fifteen minutes.

This is long enough for the child's tender skin to be subjected to the direct rays of the sun. At any other time he might be outdoors, he should be kept in the shade. And if the day is very hot, he is better off indoors. There is ample fresh air inside when windows are opened everywhere.

As for the older child whose rickets condition may have already been advertised in bowlegs or knock-knees or delayed or difficult teething or in noticeable nervous conditions, this child may have sunbaths starting as for the baby, but by slow progression reaching a dose of half an hour or more. Bones can straighten miraculously.

Dear Sir:

I am writing to thank you on behalf of all ranks at Oflag VII C for the parcels which were distributed this week. The total number of parcels was 342.

These were the first parcels we have received from the Canadian Red Cross, and we all thought that they were excellent in every way.

I would be grateful if you would tell your committee and your many helpers how much we appreciate what you are doing for us, and also how much we enjoyed your parcels.

With renewed thanks,

Yours sincerely,

EXAMINER 7072

Air mail letters from Germany are now a rarity in Canada, but the Canadian Red Cross Society received one recently from a British brigadier who is a prisoner-of-war in an enemy internment camp. The letter acknowledges receipt of 342 parcels of food by British soldiers in Oflag VII C. This gives positive proof that Red Cross food boxes are reaching the right hands. Red Cross officials were particularly gratified that these gifts from Canada had gone to Oflag VII C which is one of the German prison camps about which officials have had much to complain. The Canadian Red Cross is shipping 10,000 food boxes each week to British prisoners in Germany. Each box contains a return post card which the recipient is obliged to fill in and return. To date the Canadian Society has received more than 1,000 of these cards from British soldiers held by enemy.

Army Day Visitor At Camp

One of the more pleasant jobs for the men at the Lansdowne Park army camp was showing the visitors the use of the equipment. R. T. Patterson is seen here instructing an interested visitor on the use of a Lee-Enfield rifle.

When he visited rifle training in Manitoba, the Right Honorable W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada, took keen interest in all equipment used for the training of Canadian soldiers. Here Lieutenant C. L. Anderson of North Bay, on the left, and Lieutenant G. M. Davies, Winnipeg, display army rifles for the benefit of the prime minister.

Asleep On Deck—A Gun Their Bedfellow

They don't leave their four-inch guns, not even when they have a moment to snatch a little sleep. Gunners aboard a fighting ship on active wartime duty must always be at hand for quick action. The gun crew, above, find the deck of H.M.S. Suffolk a hard, but expedient bed.
